EXPERIENCE

Nicole Conrad-Forker worked primarily in family- and business law from the start of her professional career as an attorney. The combination of these two areas of law make her a recognized expert in consulting on complex family and inheritance law matters for a clientele working in business, as well as in national and international context.

She provides consulting services for Swiss- and foreign private clients and companies dealing with Family Governance structures as well as inheritance, succession and estate planning matters, including foundation law. Her many years of experience in dealing with a demanding clientele as well as regular continuing education have given her the necessary tact, sensitivity and tools to bring difficult cases, which at first seem unsolvable, to a mutually satisfactory solution. Moreover, she is an experienced board member in companies of various branches and sizes.

She shared her extensive knowledge as a Professor for Business Law at the Zurich University of Applied Sciences (ZHAW) and Mainz University of Applied Sciences. Mrs Conrad-Forker is currently lecturing at various institutions of higher education in Switzerland and abroad.
